THE SCHOOL

1

we first saw Pratt

*late
on a summer day*

in Brooklyn.

and trees.

there were also new buildings

clean and square.

A collage of black and white photographs. In the upper right, a building with arched windows and decorative stonework. In the lower left, a dark, textured building facade. In the center, a person stands in a window of a building with a balcony. A small inset photograph is visible on the far left.

actually it was all rather perplexing until we became oriented.

" . . . Institute was founded in 1887. It is a privately supported, nonsectarian, co-educational institution of higher education, with a distinct reputation, closely related to the work of its graduates."

PRESIDENT ROBERT F. OXNAM

Ralph W. Sterling, Vice-President

*during the time we were at Pratt we discovered that there were many people who were more or less
behind the scenes*

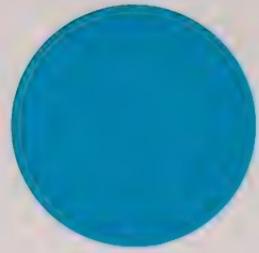

Stephen H. Millard, Business Manager

Louis Rabineau, Director of Admissions and Registrar

some were more behind than others.

Hubert M. Relyea, Bursar

STUDENT

CLASSES

" . . . Each credit which a student carries requires not less than three hours a week, including lecture and recitation, laboratory and studio work

*every morning
early
we pulled ourselves
into the new day.*

*books and boards in hand
in all sorts of weather hurried to school.*

*and filled up the rooms
warm and sleepy*

*to hear
to see*

or sleep

COMMENT

5

we came here a while back for many different reasons

because it was the best place because it meant new york
because it would do

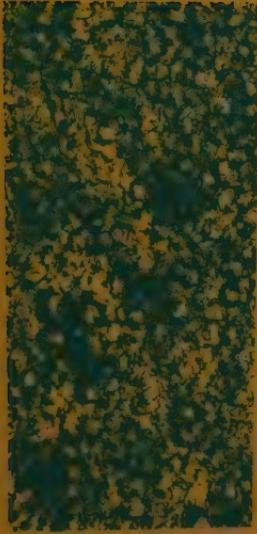

we heard many words
promising change
and this affected
our choice

and now that we see the means and hear the sounds
of change

the question is
do we know its purpose

or just its results

this we can see

lots empty
fences gone
streets bare
the new grass hiding

and

brownstones past history

a campus in the making

we've noticed
the lounge is gone

yes that barn was doomed
by progress

but it would have been thoughtful
to store its warmth
in some old packing cases and
excelsior

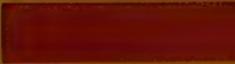

just in case we needed it

the union forever
was the cry not long ago
this year we got it
and it was named "college" union

ah that word smacks
of some sure direction
but what's it doing
here

well it slipped in and came to dinner and when we push through the maze of shining doors

we see that the pratt that was

isn't

and the pratt that will be
isn't yet

so where does that leave us in the middle

wondering
even thinking

---

and hoping
